

Abe was visiting his friend in the hospital who was quite ill and all wired up with tubes and when it was time for him to leave Abe came close to the bed to say goodbye

He noticed that his friend was gasping but in spite of his condition he reached for a pad and pen and scribbled something but Abe pushed the button for an attendant and hastily shoved the note in his pocket.

Unfortunately by the time the Dr. got to the room Abe's friend had passed away

Several days later at the cemetery Abe stepped forward to say a prayer and then remembered the note that his friend had given him and decided that everyone at the grave would want to hear what he had written,

It was " ABE YOU ARE STEPPING ON MY OXYGEN TUBE"
