

Legends surround name "Lady Lake"

There is a mysterious lady connected with the history of this city. In the late 1800, when Indians lived in the area, it was written that the pretty young wife of a hunter, who lived on the shores of the lake for which the city is named, walked into the lake to her death because she could not stand the solitude. One day when the hunter returned, he found his wife's body floating in the lake. Thereafter, she was referred to in historical accounts of the city as the "Lady of the Lake." In later years, the community leaders decided to call the city Lady Lake in memory of the mysterious woman. The Indians saw the lake as having the shape of a lady complete with arms, legs and a body and named the area ..... "Lady Lake."